Submission Changes for Facility and Gas Plant Applications

TO: Industry Clients

EFFECTIVE DATE: October 3, 2011

BACKGROUND:

The BC Oil and Gas Commission (Commission) no longer requires the submission of production accounting models with facility or gas plant applications. Facility or gas plant application approvals are no longer conditioned upon an approved production accounting model. This change in submission requirement does not reduce or eliminate industry's responsibility to develop and incorporate a sound production accounting and allocation model that meets all of the requirements of the current regulations, acts and directives.

The Commission will continue to ensure that the measurement requirements for the Upstream Oil & Gas Operations Manual is adhered to and will continue to verify meter design, suitability, placement and accuracy in all facility and gas plant applications.
