

Registration Open for Application Management System and eSubmission Training

EFFECTIVE DATE: IMMEDIATELY

The BC Oil and Gas Commission (Commission) is announcing new training sessions for users of eSubmission and the Application Management System (AMS). Registration is now open for this training.

Training sessions will be held at the Commission's office on Airport Road in Fort St. John, and also remotely via GoToMeeting. The sessions will take place the week commencing Oct. 24 and include the following:

- eSubmission: Short Term Water Use.
- eSubmission: Post Construction Plans and Preliminary Statutory Rights of Way Survey Plans.
- AMS Spatial and Data Submission Standards.
- AMS Spatial Data Submission Scenarios.
- The Application Management System: Introduction.
- The Application Management System: Advanced.
- AMS Payment: Session available on request.

Full details of the training sessions, schedule and how to register, are available here. All sessions are free and open to anyone who is working, or planning to work, with the systems. However, registration is required for each attendee and space is limited. Please note that depending on the feedback we get during registration, the schedule is subject to change as we accommodate demand.

More information can be found here on eSubmission, the Application Management System and AMS Payment.
